Touch Up Beta 0.8.1

Backstory: After getting used to tapping the status bar on the iPhone to scroll the current view to the top, I found myself wanting to do this with my mouse on the Mac when reading an article in Safari and being about 6 pages down. Thus the idea for Touch Up was born. I've been using it for a few weeks now and it has become an indispensable part of my workflow on the Mac. Thus I decided to release it as a beta version while finishing it up with all of the polish and finish fitting of a 1.0 release.

Usage: Upon launching Touch Up, a new Status Bar item (icon) will appear in the Menu Bar on the right side among the other status bar items such as Spotlight, the Time, the Volume, the Airport menu etc. Clicking it once will send the HOME key command to the current window with keyboard focus causing (most applications) to scroll the window to the top. Clicking it again will scroll to the bottom (yep, via the END key command) unless you don't click it for a bit, then it'll revert back to scrolling to the top. You'll get the hang of it. To quit, double click the icon.

Feedback: To leave feedback, email me at pws@platkusworld.com. If you have a short comment you can leave me feedback on Twitter to @platkus

Thanks and I look forward to hearing from you,

-Shawn

PlatkusWorld Software